Did you know?

A new social host law went into effect in Wisconsin on December 11th, 2017. In Wisconsin, the term "social host" describes an adult (age 18 or older) who allows or fails to take action to prevent underage drinking in a location they own, rent occupy, and control. The new law reduces youth access to alcohol by making it illegal for an adult to provide a location for underage drinking anywhere in Wisconsin. It applies to:

- Adults (age 18 and older)
- Who "knowingly permit" or "fail to take action to prevent" underage drinking
- On property the adult owns and occupies OR
- Occupied by the adult and under their control such as homes, hotels, campgrounds, cabins, etc.

A first offense violation carries a $500 fine. Like driving under the influence, the first offense is not a crime. Subsequent offenses within a certain time period can also include imprisonment – ranging from 30 days to up to 9 months. There are exemptions to the law which include:

- Alcohol provided as part of a religious service; and
- Alcohol served to underage persons accompanied by their parent, guardian, or spouse of legal drinking age

Underage drinking is a serious public health concern and the consequences can affect everyone regardless of age or drinking status. There are community programs to help reduce underage drinking such as Parents Who Host, Lose the Most. This program educates parents about the health and safety risks of providing alcohol to teenagers and increases awareness of and compliance with underage drinking laws.
